

Little Moses

Traditional Spiritual, circa 1890

- Suggested Key: A
- Capo: None
- Use A Chord Family
- Time Signature: 3/4
- ONE-two-three
- Use Alternating Bass

- 1      A                    E                    A    A    A                    E                    A    A
- Away by the waters so blue – the ladies were winding their way
- E                    E                    E                    E
- While Pharaoh's little daughter went down to the water
- A                    E                    A    A
- To bathe in the cool of the day
- A    D    A                    A    D    A
- Before it was dark she opened the ark
- A                    E                    A    A
- And found the sweet babe that was there
- A    D    A                    A    D    A
- Before it was dark she opened the ark
- A                    E                    A    A
- And found the sweet babe that was there
-
- 2      A                    E                    A    A    A                    E                    A    A
- And away by the waters so blue – the infant was lonely and sad
- E                    E                    E                    E
- She took him in pity and thought him so pretty
- A                    E                    A    A
- And it made little Moses so glad
- A                    D    A                    A    D    A
- She called him her own, her beautiful son
- A                    E                    A    A
- And she sent for a nurse who was near
- A                    D    A                    A    D    A
- She called him her own, her beautiful son
- A                    E                    A    A
- And she sent for a nurse who was near

Continued on next page

3      A                    E                    A    A                    A                    E                    A    A
 And away by the waters so blue – they carried that beautiful child
           E                    E                    E                    E
 To his tender mother, to his sister and brothers
           A                    E                    A                    A
 Little Moses looked happy and smiled
           A            D    A                    A            D    A
 His mother so good done all that she could
           A                    E                    A    A
 To raise him and teach him with care
           A            D    A                    A            D    A
 His mother so good done all that she could
           A                    E                    A    A
 To raise him and teach him with care

4      A                    E                    A    A                    A                    E                    A    A
 And away by the sea that was red – little Moses, the servant of God
           E                    E                    E                    E
 While in Him confided, the sea was divided
           A                    E                    A    A
 As upwards he lifted his rod
           A                    D    A                    A            D    A
 And the Jews safely crossed, while Pharaoh's host
           A                    E                    A    A
 Was drowned in the waters and lost
           A                    D    A                    A            D    A
 And the Jews safely crossed, while Pharaoh's host
           A                    E                    A    A
 Was drowned in the waters and lost

5      A                    E                    A    A                    A                    E                    A    A
 And away on a mountain so high – the last that he ever did see
           E                    E                    E                    E
 With Israel victorious, his hopes were most glorious
           A                    E                    A    A
 That soon all of Jordan be free
           A            D    A                    A            D    A
 When his spirit did cease, he departed in peace
           A                    E                    A    A
 And rested in the Heavens above
           A            D    A                    A            D    A
 When his spirit did cease, he departed in peace
           A                    E                    A    A ♦
 And rested in the Heavens above